

[54] INTRAOCULAR LENS INSERTING TOOL

[76] Inventor: Octavio Lopez, 111 N. Wabash Ave.,
Chicago, Ill. 60602

[21] Appl. No.: 415,804

[22] Filed: Sep. 8, 1982

[51] Int. Cl.⁴ A61B 17/00; A61F 2/16

[52] U.S. Cl. 128/303 R; 623/6

[58] Field of Search 3/13; 128/303 R; 623/6

[56] References Cited

U.S. PATENT DOCUMENTS

3,991,426 11/1976 Flom et al. 128/303 R X
4,136,406 1/1979 Norris 3/13
4,190,049 2/1980 Hager et al. 128/303 R

4,251,887 2/1981 Anis 3/13
4,349,027 9/1982 DiFrancesco 128/303 R

Primary Examiner—Ronald L. Frinks
Attorney, Agent, or Firm—Kane, Dalsimer, Kane,
Sullivan and Kurucz

[57] ABSTRACT

A tool for inserting an intraocular lens into an eye having an elongated flat member with a wide end, and two side walls for closing the haptics of lens around the lens. The lens is placed on the wide end and after the narrow end is inserted into the eye through an appropriate opening, the lens is slid along the tool into the eye.

5 Claims, 6 Drawing Figures

